Food Processing Industries in India

*150. SHRI TINDIVANAM G. VENKATRAMAN: Will the Minister of FOOD PROCESSING INDUSTRIES be pleased to state:

(a) how many Food Processing Industries are in existence throughout India at present;

(b) whether there is any proposal to commence a new one to boost up this trade; and

(c) if so, the details thereof?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF FOOD PROCESSING INDUSTRIES (SHRI TARUN GOGOI): (a) to (c) Food Processing Industries are both in organised and unorganised sectors and, therefore, the information relating to number of all food processing industries is not maintained centrally. However, as per available information, number of food processing industries which include Rice Milling Roller Flour Milling, Fruits and Vegetable Processing units, sweatened aerated water units, organised fish processing units, organised milk products manufacturing units, organised meat processing units, starch glucose & sarbitol manufacturing units, organised chocolates and confectionary units, organised biscuit units, beer units, sugar, vanaspati and solvent extracted edible oil units, total to 1,42,991.

According to the data published in the Annual Survey of Industries Report for the year 1989-90, there were 28,430 units in the Factories Sector manufacturing food and beverages.

As per the Second All India Census of small scale industries published in August, 1992, there were 99,792 registered units engaged in production of food products and beverages as on 31.3.1988.

The 8th Plan Working Group on Agro-Food Industry had estimated that there are some 2,66,000 flour chakkis, 10,000 small dal mills, 5,000 pasta food units, 15,000 traditional food units, 2,000 poha making units, besides scores of simple home scale dehydration and processing industries in rural and semi-urban areas.

While the Ministry does not set up food processing units directly, Government have taken various steps to encourage setting up of food industries. These steps include declaration of food industry as priority sector and consequent de-licensing, providing fiscal reliefs, simplification of procedures and providing assistance under Ministry's Plan schemes and making available information to potential investors.

Government have approved 516 proposals of 100 per cent EOU and/or foreign collaborations or units requiring industrial licence involving an investment of Rs. 7060 crores in last 3 years. In addition, some 2680 Industrial Entrepreneurs Memoranda involving an investment of Rs. 34,459 crores have also been filed till June, 1994 in respect of those food industries which do not require government approval.
